

eLawyering and the Future of Legal Work

Friday, February 10, 2006
11:00 - 12:30

Room 1200, The John Marshall Law School
315 S. Plymouth Court, Chicago, IL
www.jmls.edu

presented by

The John Marshall Law School Center for Information Technology & Privacy Law

The ABA eLawyering Task Force (Law Practice Management Section)
The ABA Litigation Section's Technology for the Litigator Committee
The ABA Standing Committee on the Delivery of Legal Services

eLawyering is doing legal work – not just marketing it – over the Web. Pioneering practitioners have found dramatic new ways to communicate and collaborate with clients and other lawyers, produce documents, settle disputes, interact with courts, and manage legal knowledge. There are exciting initiatives underway now that deserve attention by all lawyers – present and future.

The legal profession is being disrupted from without and from within. To be successful in the coming era, lawyers will need to know how to practice over the Web, manage client relationships in cyberspace, and offer “unbundled” services. Come hear about the knowledge and skills you need to prosper in the years ahead.

Panelists:

Ronald Staudt (professor, Chicago-Kent College of Law)

Todd Flaming (partner, Schopf & Weiss; adjunct professor, The John Marshall Law School)

Will Hornsby (staff counsel, American Bar Association; adjunct professor, The John Marshall Law School)

Marc Lauritsen (president, Capstone Practice Systems)

This free program is open to all Chicago-area law students and young lawyers with an interest in the innovative use of technology. Lunch will be served.

RSVP by February 3, 2006 to The John Marshall Law School Department of Event Management at 312.987.1420 or e-mail events@jmls.edu
